Consider the Fraunhofer diffraction pattern of a rectangular aperture 0.200mm (in the y -direction) by 0.100mm (in the z -direction) It is formed in 543 -nm light from a helium-neon laser, on a screen 10.0m away. Determine the relative irradiance 1.00mm from the center of the pattern along the orthogonal symmetry axes Y and Z

Call the irradiance at the center of the central Fraunhofer diffraction maximum of a single slit I 0 and the irradiance at some other point in the pattern I. Obtain the ratio I / I 0 for a point on the screen that is 3/4 of a wavelength farther from one edge of the slit than the other.

Solved: Call the irradiance at the center of the central ...

a. Show that in a double-slit Fraunhofer diffraction pattern, the ratio of widths of the central diffraction peak to the central interference fringe is 2(a / b), where a / b is the ratio of slit separation to slit width.Notice that the result is independent of wavelength.

Fresnel diffraction is an approximate solution of the Huygens-Fresnel integral assuming the phase of the wavefront in the aperture has a quadratic dependence upon aperture coordinates. Only that portion of the aperture near the line connecting source and observation points contributes to Fresnel diffraction. For different symmetries, the integral is solved using different mathematical ...
